Full service jails shall provide prisoners with sufficient space. The facility shall maintain documentation regarding square footage and maximum occupancy figures for all housing and holding areas, and shall comply with the minimum requirements for housing cells outlined in (a-d): (2) Housing Cells: (a) Seventy square feet for single occupancy.; (b) One hundred square feet with seven feet least dimension for double occupancy, stacked bunks, one hundred and ten square feet with nine feet least dimension for double occupancy, single bunks.; (c) One hundred and forty-five square feet with nine feet least dimension for triple occupancy, stacked bunk and single bunk ; one hundred and seventy square feet with twelve feet least dimension for triple occupancy, single bunks. (d) One hundred and eighty square feet with nine feet least dimension for quadruple occupancy, two stacked bunks, two hundred and fifteen square feet with twelve least dimension for quadruple occupancy, single bunks.

The information provided on the Annual Data Form, as well as, the physical observation shows that the jail's everyday operations exceed the Bureau's recommended housing capacity of 865, therefore failing to provide the prisoners with the appropriate amount of square footage per housing ares. Efforts must be made as soon as practical to limit the prisoner population in the jail within the Bureau's recommended housing capacity to allow the appropriate amount of square footage per prisoner count in the housing areas.

5120:1-8-04(A)(04)(a)

Dayspace: (a) Thirty-five square feet per number of occupants occupying the dayspace at one time. Minimum size of one hundred and five square feet.

The information provided on the Annual Data Form, as well as, the physical observation shows that the jail's everyday operations exceed the Bureau's recommended housing capacity. This does not allow enough space per prisoner count for the dayroom area. The dayroom space should allow thirty-five square feet per number of occupants occupying the day space at one time. Efforts must be made as soon as practical to limit the prisoner population in the jail within the Bureau's recommended housing capacity to allow the appropriate amount of square footage per prisoner count in the dayroom areas.
